

We are currently updating the OP Help Center content for the release of OP 14.19 or OP 19. OP 19 is a member of the certified OP 14 family of products (official version is 14.19.1), which you may see in your software (such as in Help > About) and in the Help Center tabs labeled 14.19. You may also notice that the version number in content and videos may not match the version of your software, and some procedural content may not match the workflow in your software. We appreciate your patience and understanding as we make these enhancements.

What is a CDA?

Last Modified on 09/11/2019 10:18 am EDT

CDA stands for Clinical Document Architecture. It is a standard electronic document in XML that defines the structure of certain medical records including summaries and encounter notes.

The term C-CDA is often used interchangeably, which stands for Consolidated Clinical Document Architecture. The purpose of the C-CDA is to include all clinical documents and CDA templates within one C-CDA document template.

CDAs can only be sent electronically to external contacts who have a Direct Email Address entered into the Address Book of OP.
